LET GOOD WORK GO ON.

Complete Understanding Arrived at in Time to Avert Bloodshed.

The Courier-Journal of Thursday contained the following dispatch from Paducah:

"Members of the Dark Tobacco Growers Association and independent tobacco growers have effected a compromise, and all is peace and harmony in Lyon and Caldwell counties. Every resident in these counties may now go to bed with no fear of molestation from 'night riders.'

Final adjustment was effected yesterday at Kuttawa. The Dark Tobacco Growers' delegates agreed to see that no more lawlessness is perpetrated, that independent dealers go unmolested, and further, that the various tobacco companies, through their agents, will not discriminate in their advertising. The receiver does not join the Dark Tobacco Growers' forces, shall cease, independent, and Association men settled upon this same basis in Caldwell county some two weeks ago, but Lyon, who was most interested in the outcome of the trouble, and after several futile attempts a conference was held between representatives of both factions.

"We simply informed the Dark Tobacco Growers that if any further trouble should arise, we would resort to the same methods, and every independent barn burned, we would burn ten Association barns. A well-known Kuttawa tobacco man stated this had the desired effect. "They realized we could play the game as well as they, and an agreement was easily reached."

This sort of an understanding between the two sides was advised by the Kentuckian two months ago and if a basis of harmony has been reached, the good citizens on both sides are to be congratulated. While there has been no formal agreement in this country, there has been a general understanding that unlawful methods would not be resorted to. A general policy of reprisal in barn-burning and bodyslapping, which is sure to come if such lawlessness becomes prevalent, would be ruinous to prosperity and would untold harm to the Association, which alone has to look to public approval for its moral support and continued usefulness. If this kind of an agreement can be reached in a few other counties infested with a lawless element, and both sides will in good faith see that it is carried out, the Association will be greatly strengthened and its continued success will be assured.

It is not certain that the Association is responsible for the outrages in some countries, but as the night riders claim to be operating in the interest of the Association, there are but two things to be done. One is to control the night riders and the other is to repudiate and denounce them as without authority to commit crimes in the name of a lawful body, made up of God-fearing men and good citizens.

Let us all hope that the "Kuttawa agreement" may bring peace—peace without bloodshed. With all the over-heated talk on both sides, not one drop of blood has yet been shed and God grant that this may be said when the tobacco trouble is all over. The Association is doing a great work, it is proving itself a blessing to the people. To use the statistics of Hon. Joel B. Fort in a recent address, it has saved to the tobacco growers $4,500,000 on two crops alone, then why not let it go ahead and complete its triumph as a band of brothers, persuading rather than driving those slow to see the advantages of a permanent, and above all, a peaceful organization?

JAMESTOWN CONTEST.

Nearly 3,000 Votes Cast
Since Last Report.

About three thousand votes have been cast since our last report. This does not include the numerous coupons issued to subscribers who have paid up and ahead, but who are reserving their votes for the future. There was one new entry this week, Miss Marion Burris, in district No. 1, whose address is Hopkinsville R. R. No. 2. Among the January coupons, clipped from the Kentuckian and sent in, we found a few bearing date of December. These of course, were not counted, as the coupons appearing each month must be counted in the same month in which they appear in the paper.

The following is the standing of contestants in yesterday's count:

Standing Feb. 1.

COUNTY COMMITTEE

Will Meet Monday to Hear Reports.

The County Committee of the Dark Tobacco Association, of which Mr. W. W. Radford is Chairman, will meet at the court house Monday to hear reports from the various districts. The committee meets once a month and much routine business will be up for consideration. Mr. Will A. Glass is the secretary of the committee.

Brame-Thomas.

Mr. Mack Brame and Miss Elmae Thomas, popular young people of the Bennington neighborhood, were married last Wednesday in this city. After the license had been secured, they went to the parsonage of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and in the presence of a few witnesses were united in marriage by Rev. A. C. Biddle.

gelist's meetings after she had given up the dancing, trying to bring up an argument in favor of dancing. It's all wrong and you know it."

Some of you are so "meek" that you say you can't move round. I don't want you to move "round." I want you to move down. Meekness is not timidity. Throw timidity to the four winds until you get above it. You will never do anything until you do.

When McKinley was killed our whole country was in trouble because it could not see who might fill his place in the hearts of the people and keep the machinery of the government running. But I had my eye on Teddy and believed that he had the grit to take hold and do the right thing. If he hasn't done more good for the people than any other President of our latter years — then I'll eat Teddy.

What is the incentive to make us help the backsliders? "Considering thyself, lest ye also be tempted."

Put yourself in his shoes. It's a very light matter sometimes to forget our brother's burden and sorrow, but when sorrow comes home, then it is a very different thing.

There are Christians here tonight who, with the same heredity, the same environment, the same opportunity, and with the same pressure brought to bear on them, would be where the backslider and the sinner are tonight. We must bear one another's burdens if we fulfill the law of Christ.

At the conclusion of his powerful sermon Mr. Holcomb called on all Christians of every denomination who wanted to be instrumental in leading the backsliders back to God to go forward and give him their hand. Probably one-fourth of the congregation did so.

Dr. Lyon announced that another lot of song books had been ordered and could be had for 15 cents each. Prof. J. M. Ragsdale, who conducted the singing here during Pat Davis' revival, will be here to-day and take charge of the singing. No services to-day or to-night.

TEN NEW ROOMS

Planned for Baptist Church Sunday School.

The Baptist church at prayer meeting Wednesday evening instructed the Building Committee to begin in definite plans of the proposed addition to the church building, so far as concerns the Sunday school room. It is not likely that any changes in the main auditorium will be considered at this time. The need for more class rooms is urgent and it is quite likely that the raising of the amount estimated for this work will be undertaken to-morrow morning. About $3,500 is all that will be required for the addition of nine or ten rooms, about doubling the present floor room of the Sunday school rooms. Rev. M. A. Jenkins, the pastor, will leave early next week for his tour abroad and it is contemplated to have the work done when he returns in June. Rev. Geo. W. McPherson, the supply during the pastor's absence, will arrive to day, but Dr. Jenkins will fill his own pulpit at both services tomorrow. The night sermon will be on "The unpardonable sin."

MRS. E. F. KINKEAD

Passes Away After Brief Illness of Pneumonia.

Mrs. Elizabeth F. Kinkead, wife of Mr. Jas. F. Kinkead, died Thursday morning at her home on Brad street. Death was due to pneumonia. Mrs. Kinkead was 71 years old and had been a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church for a number of years. Her husband she is survived by two children, John and Miss Belle Kinkead. Rev. A. C. TALE OF TELEPHONE

MELODRAMATIC ROMANCE OF HOTEL PROPRIETOR OF KIEL

She Called Pretty Telephone Girl a Hussy, But She Got Even by Marriage.

"Whir, whir," went the telephone wheel. The young hotel proprietor of Kiel shook the instrument furiously.

"Why did the girl not answer?"

"Whir, whir"—was there no one at the exchange?

"Whir, whir." He would complain. With such a staff at the exchange, business would soon come to a standstill.

"Whir, whir." Was not the bell snapping itself to pieces at the other

"You Are an Impudent Hussy!"

"End? Yet no one would answer?" "Hello, are you there?" he shouted. "Yes. This is at the end of a full ten minutes."

"Why did you not answer before?" demanded the young hotel proprietor.

"But, indeed, (consequently) . . . why, you know, when it is disgraceful the way you have kept me here," he added, still more passionately at the finish, while answering at the other end of the telephone.

"Do so," came back with some spirit.

"I will. What is your name? I'll come round at once." (Determined.) With these words he concluded, and gave the girl a kiss to his feelings, adding: "You are a good-looking hussy."

Two days later he sent a telegram to the young hussy as he sat at breakfast. The contents did not appear to please him. There was a fist!

The telephone girl had actually the audacity to bring an action for slander against him. What in the world was he to do?

His breakfast passed unnoticed.

"Continue the call," he instructed.

"The impudent hussy. Yet he felt that the boy would not view the matter in the same light in which he himself was forced to view it. Nor was he satisfied in his surprise, for some days later he let the court know that he had not the right to a little kick-back, and the judge ruled that he had a right to it.

So much so had he clung that the next afternoon he had arranged and made the pretty telephone girl.

After this introduction he saw her often. And when he did not, he spoke to her through the telephone and sent only the politest messages imaginable. Later, he discovered a word which translated from the German means "dear" and, still later, his grammar kindly provided him with its equivalent.

So, to-day, the telephone girl and the handsome young hotel proprietor of Kiel are married.

The young lady often reflects on the way in which good can come out of evil, but she is always amused to think that her husband came to her via the police court.

Better he should come thus not at all.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

HEADS BIG RAILROAD SYSTEM

James McCreas of Pittsburgh has assumed the reins of government in the Pennsylvania railroad, succeeding his namesake, James A. Cassatt, president of the company. He was also elected to all the various directorates created by the death of Mr. Cassatt.

That Mr. McCreas was fully in accord with the policy of Mr. Cassatt and that he will go on with the labors begun by him was assured by his announcement made directly after his election.

Like Mr. Cassatt, Mr. McCreas began at the very bottom of the ladder. Born in Philadelphia on May 1, 1868, he entered railroad service in June, 1885, as rodman and assistant engineer with the Connellsville & Southern Pennsylvania railroad and remained in that position for two years.

He then took the position of rodman on the Wilmington & Western railroad. In 1889 he became an assistant engineer of the Allegheny Valley. In 1891 he was on the Pennsylvania and subsequently became an assistant engineer and division superintendent, manager, general manager and fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh. He was soon promoted to the second vice presidency and since 1892 has been first vice president.

McCreas also has been identified with other railroads. Since September 8, 1893, he has been president of the Cincinnati & Muskegon Valley railroad since January 15, 1896, president of the Terre Haute & Indianapolis, and since August 1, 1896, president of the Grand Rapids & Indiana.

WILL DIRECT CAMPAIGN

With the retirement of George B. Carpenter, Harry S. New of Indiana becomes acting chairman of the Republican national committee. For several years Mr. New has been vice chairman of the organization. On numerous occasions he has demonstrated ability as a party leader, notably during the last presidential campaign when he was in charge of the western quarters of the national convention. In that position he distinguished himself in rolling up the tremendous plurality for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. He has a wide acquaintance with public men and is very popular personally. He has been a delegate to many conventions, has served in the Indiana senate as well as a captain of volunteers during the Spanish-American war.

The present Republican national committee will direct the organization of the next national convention. A national committee is a much more important body in Republican than in Democratic conventions as all contests in Republican conventions are first passed upon by the national committee and delegates seated by it are entitled to vote. Its work, of course, is reviewed by the credentials committee and the convention, but its power shown by the manner in which the La Follette delegations from Wisconsin were thrown out three years ago. It is expected there will be an unusually large number of contesting delegates from the south in the 1908 convention.

NEW MAJOR GENERAL

Maj. Gen. Jesse M. Lee, recently detached from command of the department of the Visayas in the Philippines, has been placed on the retired list of the army by operation of law, on account of age, and Brig. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, chief of staff, the senior officer in his grade, promoted major general.

Gen. Bell is one of the younger generals in the army. He is from Kentucky, and was a graduate from the Military Academy in the class of '11. He was then assigned to second Lieutenant Second Cavalry and became Captain Seventh Cavalry March 22, 1889, the same day as his promotion in rank. After serving during the Spanish-American War, he was assigned to the Adjutant General's Department, remaining as a major throughout his service. He commanded the Sixth United States volunteer infantry and was promoted to colonel, general of volunteers in December 1898.

In recognition of his gallant services the government appointed him, February 1901 from Buffalo, Seventh Cavalry, to the rank of general in the regular army. While acting as major general of the Cavalry Staff corps at Leavenworth, Kan., he during his term of service for duty as chief of staff to Sherman, Gen. John C. (1898-1901).

FORTUNE TO AID IN POLITICS

As the stepson son of the east of Rochester is not of all probability that Hugh Nott Phelps would ever have found himself in such mortifying circumstances as would necessitate his work for a living. That is rendered a still more real contingency by his recent inheritance of $500,000 and a big London house under the will of his great aunt, Miss Lucy Cohen, Truly Hon. Mrs. Phelps, widow of Sir Hugh Nott Phelps, Lord Darnell, will come into the titles and estates of his son, but his fortune does not follow the law of primogeniture, and it is well known that Mr. Phelps has been endowed with the bigger share of his father's ability and oratorical gifts. He is on his 24th year and his friends predicted for him a brilliant political career, and it was to help him in this direction that he was given the name of Fortune. He may have to wait, though, until the next general election before he finds a chance to seek parliamentary honors. There is little doubt that he will be elected whenever the opportunity occurs. When it comes to wealth a constituency of $70,000 will go a long way.

Hon. Neil Pilkerton is a strapping fine fellow, and an uncommonly good looking one too. Although he won high honors at Oxford he distinguished himself at athletics also, and was one of the best heavyweight boxers in the university. At forty, too, he is a hard man to beat.

LUCKY PETE LARSON"

Pete Larson, 35, times a millionaire, has again proved his title to the title of "Lucky Pete Larson" by which he is known throughout the northwest. Next to Senator W. A. Clark, he is the richest man in that section. Thirty-three years ago Larson started in New York a poor Danish boy with not a word of English. The boy grew.

Still, he did not mind that much what he did not know, he was the typical hussy. He had seen her in the court, and the court had to change his mind about the girl he had chosen to be his wife.

So much so had he clung that the next afternoon he had arranged and made the pretty telephone girl. After this introduction he saw her often. And when he did not, he spoke to her through the telephone and sent only the politest messages imaginable. Later, he discovered a word which translated from the German means "dear" and, still later, his grammar kindly provided him with its equivalent.

So, to-day, the telephone girl and the handsome young hotel proprietor of Kiel are married.

The young lady often reflects on the way in which good can come out of evil, but she is always amused to think that her husband came to her via the police court.

Better he should come thus not at all.

He was thrown into the water, but contrived to find among the foaming waves a log. To this he held with bulldog tenacity for several hours, until finally rescued by the tug steamer.

Larson is not what would be termed a good mixer.

He is a member of the fraternal, the Elks. More than six feet he may be described as a bulldog.

Pete Larson's name is noted for his freed蒙特尼 give his freedom to churches, charities and the study.

THE BARRIERS OF WEALTH

BY VENITA SEIBERT

(Copy, 10¢, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Fraulein Pauline Von Engelbrecht fitted about her dainty mignon. Humming a snatch of song as she paused in the doorway of another, how to give her hair a coquettish little twirl, now to chin softly to her bird.

Fraulein Pauline's sewing girl went her head over the skirt she was altering, but not one of these careless graceful movements escaped her, and her whole soul was filled with longing and desire. She had seen a picture of a young German lady, while some American relatives; she was rich, she was loved and admired and made much of, who could fit in her dainty clothes and talk like her bird. The sewing girl uttered fierce words.

And by Fraulein Pauline took up to her, and she was to be her maid. They studied the dark face of the girl bent over her work, noted the shallow skin, the tired droop of the shoulders, the heavy brow. Presently a soft hand was laid on the nervous fingers that held the needle, and a gentle voice said: "My dear, tell me what it is that you are thinking?" The girl looked up with startled eyes, then suddenly she burst into tears. "Oh, fraulein, I hate to be poor! I hate it so! It is always work and work and work, and I have no pretty dresses and no pleasure! I am ugly and poor, and everybody despises me."

"Your child, poor child!" said Fraulein Pauline thoughtfully. "You are young, and have nothing, and you are thinking that I, too, am young and have everything, are pretty and rich, and admired! It is not so!"

"My child, do you think rich people have everything? I have not!" said the girl softly, and will tell you a little story. Far away in a German city, at one of the great music concerts, an artist and a young girl were introduced to each other. These two met many times thereafter, and life was very beautiful to them. Then came a change. The man's eyes could no longer hide the love that lay behind them, but he did not speak. The girl was an heiress, and he feared to be called a fortune hunter. She was also well-born, and he was but a poor American; her wealthy relatives looked askance at him, and knew that he was not a man to match her. The girl did not want a fitting match; she wanted a mate. But, act! she could not speak, she could only wail.

The sewing girl ventured to lay her hand tenderly on the bowed head; her eyes were filled with gentle tears. "Old man, never see him again!" she added softly.

The other girl lifted her face. "Never again," she said, quietly. "It is nearly two years ago now. I am too young not to find joy in my friend's flowers and my birds, my books and traveling, but the best thing in life I have missed, because I am rich, and this is all you have." And she did not say this afternoon. It is a beautiful spring day, and you need some fresh air. I want you to walk in the park. The skirt can wait until to-morrow."

The girl glanced dubiously at a large bundle that she had brought with her. "Those are vests," she said. "My sister and I have just moved home at the tailor shop this afternoon. It is away up on East Thirtieth street."

"I will deliver them myself," said Fraulein Pauline, her natural gaiety breaking forth in delicious smiles.

"Oh, no, not you yourself. They are very heavy, and they make an ugly bundle. Perhaps you could send some one?"

"No; I shall play that I am a vest-maker taking home my week's work. I wish to see how it feels. It will be large."

Fraulein Pauline did not take a step. She was a good walker, and Thirtieth street did not seem far off; nevertheless the vests were so heavy that before she reached her destination she grew very tired. She glanced wearily up the street, and suddenly her cheeks grew white, then pink. A man was coming directly toward her—a tall, brown-eyed man with dark hair curling upward under his straw hat. He bent upon her an eager face.

"Paul—Fraulein Pauline! Am I dreaming that I see you here?" he exclaimed.

The fraulein stretched out to him her hand. "How do you do, Herr Westcott? It is only me, and not a dream at all. Ach, it is good to see you again. Would give you both hands, but you see the other is occupied."

"Paul—Fraulein Pauline! Am I dreaming that I see you here?" he exclaimed.

"Pauline, treize beret, forgive me! I see my mistake."

"Pauline, treize beret, forgive me! Thou art also a bird!" she said. "Thou art a goose! It is a Paris gown. Don't think that vest-making would suit it! But, Ernest, thou hast not said that I am forgotten for still being rich."

Herr Westcott drew her into an empty armchair, and kissed her little last kiss, he said, "I have learned my lesson."

Sets Comfort Before Fashion.

Dr. Henry Richter, the famous musical conductor, is a thorough believer in comfort in dress and not infrequently sets fashion at defiance.

Fraulein Pauline shifted the bundle on her arm, and Herr Westcott was overwhelmed with contrition. He had fouled his manners.

"Oh, I beg your pardon! Let me have your bundle!" Forgive me that I did not think of it sooner! You must be very tired!"

"I am very tired." Fraulein Pauline glared down at the bundle, and shuddered. They are vests that I am taking to the tailor shop. It is a long way from where I live, and the shop is on Thirtieth street."

Herr Westcott started. He noted the first time the contents of the bundle, and then took the bundle, the pile gown. A light broke in upon him.

He stopped, stared fixedly at the demure face and downcast eyes, then he lifted the bundle, and looked at it in dismay.

"You to carry such a long way?" is possible that all your wealth is gone, and that you are sewing vests for a living?"

"It does not pay well, but it is honest work," said Fraulein Pauline, plainly.

"Great heavens! It is monstrous! I could not have believed it possible! I must not fail to look after you! Forgive me for speaking so, but I have always been interested in your welfare, and surely you will pardon a friend for his frankness."

"True sympathy is never out of place, Herr Westcott. Ach, strange things are possible. But you must agree that my wealth was never the greatest thing in life. Not that it is very pleasant to be poor."

"Of that I am well aware, therefore

Hopkinsville Kentuckian

Both One Year For $2.50

Five people in the United States have not heard of the Courier-Journal. Democratic in all things, fair in all things, clean in all things, it is essentially a family paper.

By a SPECIAL arrangement we are enabled to offer the WEEKLY COURIER-JOURNAL one year and this paper for the price named above. Send your subscription for the combination to us, not to the Courier-Journal.

"Ich liebe dich!" She Said. Simply.

I deserve it for your sake; but for my own sake..."

"Here we are at the tailor shop!" interrupted Fraulein. In a sudden flutter. "You will wait without while I deliver the vests. I shall appear again directly."

In a very few moments they were proceeding on their way, minus the bundle and the finger that held it. Pauline had a five-dollar bill. "A week's salary!" she said, viewing it meditatively.

Suddenly a hand closed over the bill and the finger that held it. "Pauline, at last I may speak! I had no right to do, but now you are poor, poor, and I cannot suffer you to go hungry. Pauline, dear, tell me, do you always come to the very first? Sometimes I have thought that you cared. I dared not let myself dwell long on that thought, but now I must know." Pauline?

She lifted her long lashes and let him see what lay beneath. There was no coquetry in those clear depths now.

"Ich liebe dich!" she said simply—words that in any language need no translation.

After a long, long time, when they had once more become conscious of the presents and the shoes and the garments, Pauline said: "Ernest, my first care will be to estimate the one fault which I find in these. Thou art too proud. I was left lonely and unhappy simply because I had more money than thou hadst, and thy pride could not hear the thought. Come, let me have loved me well so that wealth would have meant nothing to thee?"

"It was for your sake..."

"For my sake! Then thou didst not give me credit for equal depth of soul with thyself. Ach!"

"Pauline, treize beret, forgive me! I see my mistake!"

"Pauline, treize beret, forgive me! I have a confession to make to thee. I have done my best to please thee by being poor, but also I am still rich. Ach, it is a dreadful change of prospects, I am sure, but I trust to thy honor as a gentleman not to desert me under the sad circumstances." Her eyes alighted at him mischievously. "It was not what you Americans would call a bird."

"A bird? Oh, I see. A lark! You were carrying the vests for somebody else. But this plain gown?"

Fraulein Pauline laughed merrily. "Thou art also a bird!" she said. "Thou art a goose! It is a Paris gown. Don't think that vest-making would suit it! But, Ernest, thou hast not said that I am forgotten for still being rich."

Herr Westcott drew her into an empty armchair, and kissed her little last kiss, he said, "I have learned my lesson."

Sets Comfort Before Fashion.

Dr. Henry Richter, the famous musical conductor, is a thorough believer in comfort in dress and not infrequently sets fashion at defiance.

The Weather

For Kentucky—Probably rain Sat.
Sunday.

More than 300 new cases of scarlet fever have appeared in Chicago.

A hastily organized mob came very near lynching a negro man in Pittsburgh Wednesday night, for shooting a white newsboy. The police rescued him just in time.

Capt. B. J. Ewen, whom the Harrisburg gang indicted for perjury in connection with the Marcus murder trial, has been acquitted of the charge.

Representative John Sharp Williams has introduced a resolution providing for the investigation of the "paper trust," which has just announced another ten to fifteen percent advance on all lines of paper.

Senator Foraker has recommended a negro named Ralph Taylor for a consulate, but the President is preparing to give him a Brownsville emetic and appoint Taylor collector of the part at Cincinnati, his home town.

Mr. C. C. Pace, of Franklin, editor of the Favorite, is to be nominated for the State Senate in his district without opposition. He is one of most popular newspaper men in the state, in every way deserving of the honor. What Kentucky needs is more business men like Pace and fewer politicians in the Legislature.

Still another "authorized statement" has been given out about the Oliver contract. It is to the effect that Oliver's Panama bid was "hopelessly defective" and may not be amended to bring it into serious consideration and it is all a mistake that the contract has been conditionally awarded to Oliver. It looks like plans were on foot to figure the Knoxville man out.

A young man at Coal Branch, N. B., almost married his sister. He advertised for a wife and the advertisement was answered by his sister from whom he had been separated in childhood. The girl had taken the name of foster parents. They met for the purpose of marrying, when the fact that they were born at the same place caused investigation, which led to the discovery that they were brother and sister. The girl remained as housekeeper for her brother.

In the pages of the February American Boy there is everything to please and delight its readers. The serials by Tomlinson, Shute, Sprague, Stratemeyer and Alger continue with added interest. February being the birth month of many great men, there are timely articles on: "The Longfellow Contention, 1807-1907," by J. L. Harbur, and "Why Lincoln Became President," by Frank H. Sweet. One of the short stories calculated to stir their readers are: "Broken Shoes," the story of a boy whose determination to succeed increased with obstacles; "Sugarloaf," a humorous story of a bear and a fat boy; "John Russell's Ride," a story of pluck and daring of a boy of the revolution; "How I Found the nest of the condor," the story of a hunt for the great California vulture. Timber For Jamestown Cabin
To Be Shipped Feb. 7.

Mr. J. B. Walker, acting for the Jamestown Commission, has received instructions to ship the logs for the Christian County Cabin on Thursday Feb. 7, from the C. C. depot. These logs are to be 20 feet long and large enough to square 5 inches at the small end. Any kind of timber may be used. The logs are not to be hewed about 12 more logs are needed. The names of all contributions will be framed and will hang in the cabin. Those who have furnished logs are: Dr. J. D. Clardy, J. R. Cardile, Jno. C. Gary, R. C. Gary, A. H. Wallace, J. W. Riley, C. L. Wade, G. H. Stowe, G. L. Campbell, J. V. Van Cleve, Ben Moore, Jr., J. R. Cayce, M. B. King and A. M. Henry. Eight or ten different varieties of timber have been furnished.

NASHVILLE STUDENTS.

A Good House and Play Was Very Much Enjoyed.

The entertainment of the Nashville Students Saturday night was good. Plantation songs and dancing were the features of the evening. The playing of Lowery, the cornetist, was splendid. His triple tongue work was probably the best in quality of any concert work ever done here before. There were a number of excellent voices among the personnel. Altogether the Nashville Students was far above the ordinary troupe of the kind, and furnished excellent material for an evening of laughter and fun—Joplin, Mo., Democrat.

The Nashville Students will appear at Holland's Opera House, next Wednesday night, Feb. 6.

Change of Positions.

Lawrence Bryant, for the past two years bookkeeper of the First National bank, has resigned his position to enter the employ of the American Snuff Company. Mr. Bryant is a young man of ability and the new position is a promotion. He will succeed at the bank by Mr. Will Bringhurst, who for the past year or more has been a valued employee of F. P. Gracey & Bros.—Leaf Chronicle.

Mr. Bryant is a son of Mrs. H. H. Bryant, formerly of Gracey & Bros. He is rapidly coming to the front as a fine young business man.

A Strange Story.

Mrs. Isaac W. Austin, of Chestnut Ridge, N. C., tells a strange story of a great suffering. "I was in bad condition for months, but got no relief. My periods had stopped, all but the pain. After taking part of a bottle of Wine of Cardui, nature worked properly and without pain. I advise all suffering women to use Cardui." A pure scientific remedy for women's ills. $1.00 at drug-gists.

Thresher For Sale.

We offer for sale the Geiser Thresher owned by us jointly. It includes thresher, separator, kitchen and cooking utensils, engine, McCormick shredder, etc. Will be sold for division Feb. 22, at 1 p. m., on the premises of W. H. Adams, seven miles from Hopkinsville, on Cox's Mill road.

BASKET BALL

Mooneys Defeated S. Ky. C
By Only One.

A great crowd gathered yesterday to see the game of basketball between the South Kentucky College team and the Mooneys.

It was a hard fought battle, but finally decided by a score of 24 to 25, in favor of the visiting team.

LAST NIGHT'S GAME.

The opening game of the city league was to be played last night. It was to be a double header. A large attendance was expected and great sport promised. Co. D. has a splendid team, S. K. C. has two strong ones, while the High School has the fastest they had for years.

LAST LOT SOLD.

Manager Jarrett Cleans up 1906 Crop.

Local Manager, C. F. Jarrett, this week closed out the last of the old crop of Association tobacco at schedule prices. It consisted of 45 hogheads, sold to the American Snuff Co. This makes 7,000 hogheads, sold by Mr. Jarrett, against 4,200 for the previous year. New tobacco is coming in rapidly.

SOLD FARM.

And Will Probably Engage in Other Business.

Mr. John A. White, of near Pod, has sold his farm of about seventy acres to Franklin Adams, of Dawson. The price paid was $1,040. Mr. White is looking around with a view of engaging in the grocery business.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mrs. Jno. B. Trice left Thursday for Tampa, Fla., to spend a month with her sons, Will and Rollin Trice.

Mr. Jas. H. Anderson has gone east to buy spring goods.

Mr. L. H. Davis is in Lexington attending a meeting of the Trustees of the Pythian Home.

Mr. Uighur Woolridge went to Knoxville, Tenn., on business this week.

Mrs. Claude Sisk has gone to Cincinnati, to join her husband, who has a position with the L. & N. in that city.

Mrs. Hattie Dietrich Seward after a ten day's visit to the family of her brother, Prof. C. H. Dietrich returned to her home in Akron, Ohio this week.

HOG CHOLERA

The Problem of a Cure is Now Solved.

Dr. J. H. Snoddy, of Alton, Ill., has discovered a positive cure and preventative for this terrible disease. He has had it in use for ten years and has saved millions of dollars' worth of cholera hogs for the public. The directions for its use are simple and easy to follow. Any practical farmer can stop the worst outbreak of cholera that ever came and save every hog that is able to take the treatment.

This treatment is not an expense to a farmer, because it clears his herd of every character of worm and parasite and puts them in such a thrifty condition that the extra gain they will make from the effect of this treatment will return the farmer $5 in this extra gain for every dollar's worth of the remedy used properly and right.

It is the greatest worm remedy known to medical science. It pays a farmer to keep his hogs clear of worms with it. When the hog is clear of worms and in good thrifty condition it is rather a hard master to infect him with cholera without directly exposing him to the germ.

It pays to use the medicine whether there is any cholera around or not.

This wonderful remedy is manufactured by the Dr. J. H. Snoddy Remedy Co., Alton, Ill., and is sold by Planters Hardware Co., incorporated, of Hopkinsville, and E. W. Stegar & Dixon, at Masonville, Ky. Any dealer in either of these firms can get Dr. Snoddy's free book on hog cholera, free of charge. Every farmer should have one.

FATE OF A FORT

HISTORIC MCHENRY TO BE USED BY MARYLAND MILITIA.

National Guard Secure Lease of Place Which is to Be Drawn by the Federal Forces Next April.

It is so often the privilege of old soldiers to come into possession of a fort and parade grounds which have been the scene of many scenes of loyalty and devotion to the country's safety and honor, but sure is the case with the national guard of the state of Maryland, which has through the efforts of the citizens of Baltimore and Annapolis, obtained a five-year lease of Fort McHenry after it is abandoned by the war department on April 1, 1907. Thus will the old fort made famous in the song of the "Star-Spangled Banner" of Francis Scott Key, be preserved, and the stars and stripes will fly over the old ramparts as they did on that memorable September morning of 1814, when the rising sun, piercing the smoke of battle during the bombardment of the fort by the British, disclosed them to the delighted view of Key, imprisoned on one of the British warships, and inspired him to write "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The land of which Fort McHenry is a part was taken up in 1661 under the name of Whetstone Point, under patent by Charles Gorsuch, a member of the Society of Friends. Its importance as a military fort was first recognized in 1776. It had been strengthened by the construction of a water battery then impregnable, honey-combed by magazines and secret underground passageways. This latter still stands intact, feeding the water apparatus of the fort from the south. The fort following year, in preparation of a visit from the British, a boom was constructed between Whetstone Point and the Lazaretto, and a great chain stretching across the entrance to the fort from the south. Under the control of the state until 1783, when it was turned over to the national government and named in honor of Col. James McHenry, of Maryland, who was secretary of war in Washington's cabinet.

In 1794, with funds raised by subscription, a great five star fort of brick, cement and earth was erected, whose dungeons in the civil war were filled with the dead.

NIGHTS OF UNREST.
No Sleep, No Rest, No Peace
for the from Kidney Trouble.

No peace for the kidney sufferer.
Pain and distress from morn to night.

Get up with a lame back, Twinges of backache bother you all day.

Dull aching breaks your rest at night.

Urinary disorders add to your misery.

Get at the cure—cure the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.

They're for the kidneys only—
Have made great cures in Hop Kinnville.

Wm. C. Davis, cooper, of No. 603
North Main street, says: "A dull bearing down pain across my kidneys and through the small of my back made it so painful for me to stoop or lift anything that I was unable to do any work or to have any pleasure.
Whenever I took cold it settled in my back and at night bothered me a great deal while lying in bed."

Sharp twinges often kept me awake for hours and in the morning I arose feeling tired and devoid of all energy and ambition. The condition of the kidneys was especially annoying and distressing at night. I doctored and used many remedies until I became discouraged, for instead of getting better I seemed to grow worse. Finally I happened to read an advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills, and as they were highly recommended by people nearby, I could not help but believe that they were a good remedy. I got a box and afterward using them a few days I could see a decided improvement. I kept on with the treatment and the pains in my back left me entirely and the action of the kidneys was restored to a normal and healthy condition."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Miburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doans,

FORT OF SAN JUAN

DEFENSES WHICH SPAIN PLACED ABOUT PORTO RICAN CITY.

Are Picturesque Reminders of the Conquest and Rule of the Former Masters of the Island.

Part of the defensive wall which the Spaniards built entirely about San Juan, Porto Rico, has been destroyed, but with this exception it is still a walled city, and were it not for the paved streets, the water and sewer system, the lack of American industry and push, it would still have all the appearance of a sixteenth century Spanish town.

As one enters the city from the east by the military road he is impressed with the extensive system of fortifications constructed by the Spaniards in the days of their conquest. The military observer is most impressed by the fact that the system has been evolved with special reference to a land defense, with a view to resisting an attack by way of the landward route.

A short distance further and the additional works of Fort San Cristobal are reached. This old fort, with its bastions and its keep, is a striking example of the Vauban system of fortification.

From El Ahanco to the main fort a covered way leads up the glacia, with its angles and recesses in the walls to nullify advantage should the enemy have forced an entrance from the front.

Fort San Cristobal was formerly connected with Fort El Morro and the palace of the governor, both more than a mile away, by underground passages, but these have since been closed up with debris and closed.

Fort El Morro is in reality the citadel of the entire system of fortifications of the city, and being so far inland of the town has no advanced or outworks.
It is a noble structure, according as it does not intrude upon the town, but stands on the side and serving on the other as a last stand against an attack from the land. This fort was built in the period from 1583 to 1606, and was thus completed just 300 years ago and one year before the earliest of the settlement was established.

The moat is crossed by a stone bridge, and one enters the port through the saltport, where a sentinel stands guard. Over the saltport was formerly a bronze coat of arms of Spain, but this disappeared before the fort was turned over to the United States. The fort is a mass of ruins, falling into the hands of the conquerors.

Inside the fort is a paved court, surrounded on all sides by casemates occupied as quarters for the men, mess-rooms, kitchen, hospital, etc. The exchange, etc. To the front, right and left, as one enters, are other assy-ports.

On top of the fort stands El Morro Garrison, 130 feet more feet above the water, may be seen for many miles out at sea. The iron-bound light house was erected to replace the one destroyed in the bombardment by Admiral Simpson's fleet in 1898.

A short distance from El Morro, and immediately above the wall, is La Casa Blanca, the military headquarters of Porto Rico. This old, fort-like house is said to be the oldest residence in the Western Hemisphere and was built by Ponce de Leon, the first governor of the island in 1522.

As a result of the treaty of Paris at the close of the war with Spain, all the heavy guns mounted in the fortifications of San Juan have been dismounted and shipped back to Spain and the fort is now a group of ruins, having been withdrawn from the island. Extensive plans for the proper defense of this important and strategic harbor, utilizing the most modern guns and accessories, have been made in Washington, and before many years have elapsed the new batteries will be constructed, but old Spanish defenses of the city will always be of interest in account of their completeness and historic association.

Not Yet.
"Do you regard yourself as a reformer?" asked the friend.

"Not yet," answered Senator Norgum, "but after people get tired of some of the new ideas I may come to the front and help reform them back to the old ways."

To live too fast is also to die too fast.

Washington Letter

What Is Going On in the National Capital Perry Belmont Building Spite Fence to Shut Off View of Thomas Nelson Page—Great Demand for Ten-Dollar Bills.

WASHINGTON.—Perry Belmont and Thomas Nelson Page have "a mail" with each other. Rapid-fire developments in the strife between the millionaire and the author have kept society and officialdom at the Capitol wondering what would come next.

Mr. Belmont won the latest round. He built a spite fence right across from Mr. Page's best beloved window seat, and those who have followed the Belmont fortunes in the struggle claim easy honors for the capitalist.

Mr. Belmont drew first blood, and it was perhaps a stinging blow which marred the battle's inception, when he wrote some pieces for the magazines which were not highly flattering to Perry Belmont nor to his brother, O. H. P.

When next Mr. Page sought recuperation from literary call in "poisonous" landscape magazine, he ascribed to Mr. Belmont the same pleasure of lingering in his window seat, peering across his own lawn into the restive bit of ground, large enough for a front yard, but too small for a city park.

One of the items that gets into the "duty" columns concerning the life of great authors" ascribes to Mr. Page the same pleasure of lingering in his window seat, peering across his own lawn into the restive bit of ground.

AN INDICATION OF GENERAL PROSPERITY.

Secretary Shaw has succeeded in securing the return in the treasury of over $1,000,000 bills. The place of these in the circulation has been taken, in large part, by the ten-dollar bill. The reason is that there has been a constant demand for these bills to send out more tens, because there was a tremendous demand for them.

This demand is simply a sign of the great prosperity of the country, according to financial men. Several years ago there was a constant cry for one and two-dollar bills. That cry has passed and people are walking for tens.

The demand is also in these far financial days, the monthlies, now looking upon the ten dollar bill as lightly as they looked upon a note of one-fifth or one-tenth its value in the days when banks were breaking and people were asking the way to the souphouse.

There is probably no joke about the statement that the demand for these bills is a sign of the great prosperity of the country, according to financial men. Several years ago there was a constant cry for one and two-dollar bills. That cry has passed and people are walking for tens.

The demands for "tens" worried the treasury department for a long while. Under the law it couldn't put these bills out except in exchange for money.

The demands for "tens" worried the treasury department for a long while. Under the law it couldn't put these bills out except in exchange for money.

Capt. Greenway is engaged in iron mining in Minnesota and has given certain pledges to the company he is employed with. He does not think he is at liberty to ask release from any of these pledges.

The noted ex-soldier and football player of Yale has been given a ten-year loan for several days. He is to receive a term of five years and in past years has frequently visited the president and family. He is as much admired by the Roosevelt boys as by the president. It was Greenway's great playing and management of the Yale football team in his college days that many times defeated President Roosevelt's alma mater, Harvard. The prowess of Greenway and his victories in the past appeal to the Roosevelt boys as much as his courage in war and his many qualities in peace appeal to the president.

It is Capt. Greenway and John E. McIlheney, now a civil service commissioner, who accompanied the president on his last trip through the south and he affectionately spoke of them as "the two Johns." He succeeded in getting McIlheney to come to Washington and take an official position, and when he began to hunt for a man he thought would be bomb proof against certain influences exerted in the land office he thought of Greenway. The latter's mining ventures are paying him well, though, to take a government office.

Almost everybody has forgotten that Judges Evans and McCall were once members of the lower house of congress. Neither of them made a mark as a constitutional lawyer. The fact is being pointed out that many occupants of the federal bench in the lower courts are not qualified if their terms are to extend into the spring, and would have known "name game" if they had been appointed to take care of them when they get out of a job. Judges Charles of Wisconsin, McComas of Maryland and Pritchard of North Carolina were all senators when he was elected to life positions on the bench. Aside from Judges Evans and McCall, there is Judge Davison of West Virginia, who was a member of the house. Few, if any, of these judges when in congress ever sat in constitutional debates. Inasmuch as President Roosevelt has freely criticized judicial decisions in the recent past, it is probable that the policy of rewarding so called "name jacks" also may come in for criticism from other sources of public life.

FEDERAL JUDGES FACING CRITICISM.

Before the winter is over considerable likely to be paid off among the federal judges who oversaw the trial of the former, after the chief lawyers among the nation's stations have spent weeks and months in perfecting the same. Recent decisions with respect to the employers' liability act have already started the discussion.

In his last annual message to congress the president referred to the almost nonchalant ease with which federal judges declare unconstitutional measures which have been "solemnly" considered by congress.

Almost everybody has forgotten that Judges Evans and McCall were once members of the lower house of congress. Neither of them made a mark as a constitutional lawyer. The fact is being pointed out that many occupants of the federal bench in the lower courts are not qualified if their terms are to extend into the spring, and would have known "name game" if they had been appointed to take care of them when they get out of a job. A SAVING SOUTH AMERICAN DIPLOMAT

There is a well-known South American diplomat here who is rather niggardly in his expenditures. He was the President's reception to the diplomatic corps the other night, and fairly abuzz with gold lace. Because of his rank he was well toward the end of the line. Every one noticed that he wore no gloves, but carried a package carefully wrapped in tissue paper in his pocket. After the President had finished his speech, when he was four or five feet away from the President, unwrapped the package and pulled on a pair of white gloves. After shaking hands with the President he carefully removed the gloves, wrapped them in the tissue paper, and put them in his pocket to await the next reception.

DEERING

Standard of the Harvest

Binders, Mowers, Rakes.

The praise of satisfied users throughout the agricultural world has made the name of DEERING so well known that it hardly seems necessary to dwell at great length upon the merits of the Deering machines. For those however, who have not had the pleasure and satisfaction of using this machine will say they run lighter, last longer and make more happy farmers than anything of its kind wherever grass and grain are grown. See them on exhibit, or phone or write the Planters Hardware Co., incorporated, for prices and full particulars.

Deering Binder Twine

Another thing that makes the farmer happy is TWINE that will work in all makes and kind of binders, one that runs even, and the long, smooth and strong, made of the best of manila and sisal fibre the world affords. Give us your order for your Machines and Twine. Have your wagons loaded with anything in our line.

A "STOLE" TRUNK.

Literary aspiration is lively despite these commercial days. A few weeks ago I received the following letter which, decidedly, is too good to waste.
It just fits my framed sense of humor.
The letter is from a well-known Massachusetts town, and reads:

Dear Sir—Hoping Your
Address given in a little Magazine
Called—Seeing that you purchase Manuscripts on Imagination or

Very Respectfully Yours,

I replied as follows:

My Dear Madame: Do not send the wants him?

John Dodd born and raised near Benton Town come to Durkton some four years ago. He has been a blacksmith in the basin ever since. He is a great lover of string music and performs well, he has possessed many things in life which made him happy, when he married, about a year ago he thought the possession of a sweet tempered companion was reaching the zenith of happiness but alas he passed last Monday that he was mistaken as he looked on two little bright eyes his joy had no bounds although his little family has increased calling for more expense money he may spread his feet over the floor at all times and his wife will be a star in the dark wanted however he will still be happy as the possessor of a little blacksmith with his accesses may continue.—Hinkley (Mr.)

Pattern No. 5594—A charming model which will do well in pale yellow, red, pink, blue and green.
More than half picture in pale blue outline. The waist closes in the back and box plats and lace tucks are used in the decoration. The round yoke is finished by shaped ends being caught down by fancy lace. The blouse is slightly gathered above a deep cuff. The medium size will require two and three-quarters yards of 36-inch material.
Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches
but measure.

A MODISH COSTUME.

5695

Pattern No. 5695 and 5692—The latter for costume effects becomes steeper as the season advances, and the styles bite fair to continue all through the season. The daintiness and simplicity of the design here present renders it particularly adaptable to the young and soft silks, which are now in such vogue every year.
The blouse is cut in scalloped outline and opens with a guipure of all-over lace. The skirt is shaped by nine gores, and is an especially attractive model. It admits of being made in round, short round, or step round, and the present style can be omitted. For 36-inch bust measure two-and-one-eighth yards of 27-inch material will be required for the waist, and for the skirt 11½ yards. The guipure will require two and three-fourth yards. Ladies' guipure blouse No. 5695: Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Ladies' platted skirt with arched waist, No. 5692. Sizes for 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches bust measure.

The above illustration calls for two separate patterns. The price is ten cents for the waist and ten cents for the skirt.

TABERNACLE

Attraction No. 5, Next Monday Night.

Lovers of the histrionic who never attend theatres will doubtless spend a pleasant evening at the tabernacle next Monday night, the occasion being the first appearance before a Hopkinsville audience of Wallace Bruce Amasbury, who fills No. 5 of the regular tabernacle course.

People who like a dash of the comic as well as the more serious phases of life, with enough impersonation thrown in as good count, will get it all Monday night, with a little poetry thrown in as extra seasoning. Mr. Amasbury is actor, poet and reader. He has quit the stage for the platform and wherever he has appeared has so pleased his audiences that the press has about exhausted its vocabulary in his praise, one of the New York papers declaring that "he is the embodiment of reality in every selection he gives." Opie Read says "he is a man with the soul of poetry—a veritist, and his work is a truth accentuated on the stage."

RED CROSS HOSPITAL

FINE, LARGE STRUCTURE TO BE OPENED IN NEW YORK CITY.

INSTITUTION WHOSE CAREER OF MERRY IS TO BE REWARDED BY THE POSSESSION OF A NEW BUILDING.

Since 1894 New York City has had a Red Cross Hospital, but the early history of the institution is checkered with the memory of dark periods of financial difficulties which made it seem as if it would have to be abandoned. But better days were in store for the institution, and now its officers and friends are looking forward to the early occupancy of at least a part of the new building which is being erected in the New York city.

The New York Red Cross hospital was organized in 1894, incorporated in 1895 and re-incorporated in 1902, under charters granted by the state of New York, and has been carrying on its mission of Christianity and mercy in a quiet and efficient manner, treating over 1,000 thousand afflicted poor, and defraying all its expenses through the generosity of its few officers, treating all applicants alike, irrespective of creed or nationality, until the ever-increasing demands that were being daily made upon its services compelled it to accept a wider scope, and the opening of the first section of its new hospital early next year is the initial step toward the founding of a permanent institution that will stand for time immemorial as a tribute to the wisdom and generosity of a merciful and loving people.

The unconditional presentation of the building site made by the president, William T. Wardwell, and the liberal support given by the patrons of the building fund have made the erection of the building possible.

The present officers and patrons of the New York Red Cross are: William T. Wardwell; vice president, John S. Hunter; treasurer, Alfred J. Manierre; secretary, Allen Wardwell; surgeon in chief, A. Monroe Lesser, M. D.

It was in the latter part of 1896 the hospital was built. Its decks were needed as if the work would have to be discontinued, and it was at a meeting place to the trolley line which enters the valley through a canyon about two miles from the south.

The tourists who visit the wonderful place will be able to make the trip comfortably by trolley—the requisite electricity for which will be furnished by water power.

The reservation, as now officially outlined, is 32 miles in width, from east to west, and 12 miles from north to south. But the valley itself is only six miles long by half a mile in width. It is sunk just about one mile vertically below the general level of the adjacent regions, resembling a gigantic trough of irregular shape, bounded on the north by mountains and on the center of the axis of California, the Yosemite is 152 miles from San Francisco as the crow flies—a little south of east.

In early days the whites in that part of California had a good deal of trouble with the Indians, settling among them, and committing various outrages committed. It was learned that the savages had some sort of retreat far up in the mountains—a natural stronghold, in which they deemed themselves safe from pursuit or attack—and, curiously on the subject, it is stated, in military expedition was organized against the region and drove out the Indians.

Under the guidance of an old chief, Tenaya, whose name is perpetuated in a beautiful lake between Mount Hoffman and Cathedral peak, the party finally reached the valley, where they found the last of their hired human beings to behold. They killed some of the Indians and made peace. Nevertheless, not long afterward, in 1852, a party of miners was attacked by redskins in the valley, two of them being slain near Bridal Veil meadow. Another expedition was sent out, and the Indians and the rest were driven out, being compelled to take refuge with a tribe of Indians on the east side of the Sierra. But trouble followed, the fugitives stole horses from the Mojos, fled to the Yosemite, were overtaken and, in a battle were almost entirely exterminated.

Afterward, the Indians, who had been pleased to travel to the Yosemite began a raid centering the valley, for the east side was opened. The first raid was made in that year against Yosemite. The whole country was gradually taken over by the Indians, who were the most numerous in the United States, but the government gave the valley to California, though retaining possession of an extensive area, which the Indians had been known to frequent in the Yosemite valley. The Indians were then compelled to leave the valley, and the Indians were forced to leave the valley.

On the 1st of January, 1855, the Indians who were under the leadership of their chief, Tenaya, came to the valley, and the Indians were scattered. But they were very primitive savages, both sexes and all ages, naked, and were commonly known as "Diggers" and every autumn they gather, in and about the valley, quantities of acorns, which are then called food supply, and which they store in enormous cylindrical receptacles of bamboo woven on posts or in the form of ovens.

The principal reason which the north of the valley is the one in which the success was established in home and war service, was decided upon in 1897, after a number of experiments at the Red Cross hospital were concluded. The staff treated disease without drugs or methods which by observation have been found to be effective in different organs of the human body, provided another method would be of as much benefit without producing the ill effects of most.

Temperature is not restored by dry heat, nor by cold, but by a moderate temperature, which is the best for health. The New York Red Cross consists of an indoor and outdoor department. The hospital represents the indoor department, while the attendance of the staff to needy patients at their own homes constitutes the outdoor department. The total number of beds in the indoor and outdoor departments is up to date somewhat more than 4,000. The average mortality, including all classes of disease, was 3.7 per cent. Excluding all malignant diseases, the mortality was a little less than 1 per cent.
